

Ministry of Labour, Employment and Social Security of the Nation

The Ministry of Labour, Employment and Social Security is a national body in charge of proposing, designing, developing, managing and overseeing the policies related to all areas of: labour, employment and labour relations; labour training and social security. The Coordination of Social Responsibility and Decent Work, which works in a transversal way within the Ministry's structure, was established as a platform for the promotion and design of action strategies to strengthen Social Responsibility and Decent Work through the exercise of good labour practices in Argentina. Its mission is to contribute to the sustainable development of socially responsible production chains.
